Bulletin No. 11

Friday 26th April, 2019

Dear Families and Friends,

Welcome back to Term 2. I hope you all had a safe and Holy Easter. We have had a great start to the Term and it promises to be another busy one! Please take note of the listed dates for Term 2.

ANZAC Service

Today our Liturgy Leaders led our ANZAC Service. Our students put on a wonderful service, not only acknowledging the men and women who have represented their countries during times of war, but also a time to pray for world peace.

Thanks to all who were involved – I'm sure our soldiers would be very proud. Thanks also to Miss Kirk for her leadership in preparing this service.

*"They shall not grow old, as we that are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them nor the years condemn,
At the going down of the sun and in the morning,
We shall remember them"*

Working Bee – Saturday 4th May: 1:30pm – 4:30 pm. Everyone welcome.

Prep Enrolment 2020

Next week we will be looking at our 2020 Prep Enrolments. If you have a child commencing next year and haven't returned an enrolment form, would you please do so next week. Thank you.

Parking

With the onset of wintery weather, traffic congestion around the school will certainly increase. Can I please ask all drivers to be considerate when parking, ensuring that we park close to the curb and close to driveways, leaving enough room for others to park behind, if possible? We should never park over driveways – not only is it the law, but it is also disrespectful to our neighbours. Safety in and around the school is a responsibility we all share.

Can I also request – please, please, please don't park in the two minute zone and walk down to collect your child or to drop them off. Please stay with your car so you can move off quickly when necessary. Your cooperation is greatly appreciated by all members of our community.

UNIFORM SHOP / WINTER UNIFORMS

Winter uniform items are available from the Uniform Shop. Please get in now and place your orders at <https://sjwheelershill.cdfpay.org.au>. These orders will be sent home and if you need to make changes to the sizes that you have ordered, please come to the Uniform Shop on any Thursday morning between 8.45-9.15am and we can exchange for the correct size.

The requirement is that all students are in full school winter uniform by the second week of Term 2.

Minor Works

Over the holidays we had some minor works completed around the school, including:

- updating the disabled parking signs around the school and church,*
- completing the garden bed outside the library*
- staining the deck outside the PAC and adding chains/hooks to hold the doors open,*
- new signage on the student toilets and cleaners room,*
- removing the two garden beds between the Library and the Wheeler Wing and back filling with concrete.*

As always, the place looks great and doesn't go unnoticed by our visitors who often comment that if a community cares this much for their school, then it is obvious that they would care for each other. A huge thank you to Tony D, Angelo G and Paul K who spend many hours ensuring that our grounds look great.

Before the end of the year, we hope to address some other areas of the school grounds, including the playgrounds, student toilets and retaining walls.

A reminder that we have a working bee next Saturday – everyone welcome. Remember, many hands make light work.

Dealing with Anxiety in our Society

All Children Can Achieve Success

St Justin's Parish School, Wheelers Hill

Last week I had the great privilege of attending the Victorian Association of Catholic Primary School Principals' biennial Conference, the focus of which was "Impact the Future: Leading Today's Learners for Tomorrow". There were a variety of high quality presenters and presentations that mostly centred around themes such as the importance of working on mindset with our students, building positive attitudes and ensuring we work with them in achieving their full potential. All of our speakers had succeeded in either developing their own businesses or working in successful organisations and spoke of their own need to persevere in times of hardship.

Some of our speakers referred to our current societal struggles with anxiety and the impact that this can have on our children's learning, health and wellbeing. Of note has been the huge increase in treatment of anxiety and the use of medication to balance the effects of it on our everyday lives.

One of the major contributing factors to this increase in more recent years has been the leap in advancements in technologies and our inability as humans to manage this sudden change. The invention and massive explosion of the use of the smartphone and other smart devices has meant that so many of us now, including our teens and the vast majority of primary school students, are in constant connection with the world through the screen. With our links to an online world which constantly wants our attention, we have become unsure about how to draw the line between our physical connections with other humans and our online relationships. Human relationships are blurred as we no longer practise personal connection as we used to. We engage in games where we don't need to communicate face-to-face, or we reply to messages and emails which reduce the need for human interaction.

What can we do about it?? Recognising what is happening is the first thing you can do! Other recommendations include:

- Limiting time spent on devices
- Make certain times of the day completely technology free
- Don't be on screens before bed time as this can keep people awake
- Exercise regularly and spend time with friends (face-to-face)

Managing & Limiting Screen Time

Screens or devices i.e. (IPad's, phones, computers and TV's) are fantastic tools to use in relation to both children's learning and entertainment. At St. Justin's Primary School, we encourage the use of the latest technology and apps for educational purposes using a balanced approach both at school and at home. We understand that too much screen time can lead to physical, social-emotional, developmental and safety risks for the child. From a parents or carers perspective, we acknowledge that managing and monitoring your child/children's screen time is becoming increasingly hard in this digitally focussed world.

Here are some examples of questions you might ask yourself to establish whether your child/children's screen time is under control at home;

- Do you have a plan to manage screen time for your child/children that is consistently followed?
- Does the use of screen time for your child conflict with time being spent socially with friends or family?
- Does the use of devices or screens interfere with your child's daily sleep habits?
- Does the use of screen time take the place of other activities deemed to be most important to a child's development, such as physical play, reading, or creative play like drawing?
- Is your child engaging in quality screen time? i.e. (does the app or video support your child's learning through encouraging creativity, problem solving, communication or social skills?)
- Is the transition between screen time and non-screen time easy to manage? i.e. (will they get off when instructed to do so or do they become over emotional?).

If after asking yourself these questions, you feel as though you may need to put some strategies in place at home to manage or limit your child/children's screen time, below are some useful tips;

- Set out your family limits in regards to screen time. This means having agreed rules from both an adult and child's perspective. For example in relation to what devices or apps can be used, when, where and the duration they can be used for.
- In consultation with your child/children, develop consequences if the rules you've agreed on together are broken. For example, your child might be using an app which you agreed was inappropriate or they have taken the device into their bedroom to use during sleep time. A consequence may be taking away the screen or device for a set period of time.
- Set children up for success in relation to following the rules i.e. (set a timer that lets the child know when screen time is over, or remind your child when screen time is about to finish).
- Talk to your child about their next activity before screen time starts, this allows an easier transition when screen time ceases.
- Allocate screen free times i.e. (60-90 minutes before bedtime as recommended, dinner time and during social/family events or activities).
- Use screen time as a reward for desired behaviours or as exchange for other activities such as cleaning their room or completing homework. Remember that the amount of time allowed on screens should be half the amount of time spent off the screens.
